

GUN MOUNT WORKSHEET.

The 'Vanilla' Mount Drill

The aim of this drill is to build mount accuracy and consistency. Start from a gun down position and mount with the static target being the corner where both walls and the ceiling meet:

The Left to Right Crossing Drill

This drill is to practise mounting onto a left to right crosser and following the target. Mount at the blue dot, follow the blue line (which follows the line where the left-hand wall and ceiling meet) and end at the red dot:

The Going Away Drill

The aim of this drill is to practise getting onto targets that are flying away from the gun and rising like a walked up pheasant would do. Start at blue, finish at red:

The Incoming Pigeon Drill

This drill is the opposite to the one above - it's to practise mounting onto a target flying towards the gun and dropping very much like an incoming pigeon would to a decoy pattern. Mount onto the blue dot and follow it down stopping at red:
